Facility of Reference.—The Revised Reports are cited in the Law Reports, the Encyclopædia of the Laws of England, the Digest of English Case Law, and in most of the leading text-books.

Where the editor of a text book is so unenterprising as not to insert references to the Revised Reports, a case may be readily found by means of the table of comparative reference which is printed opposite the title-page of every volume after vol. 45.

"Al. that we find ourselves able to say of this volume (for to criticise it would be to assume mastery of the whole common law) is that the subjects appear to have been allotted to the right people, and dealt with at length fairly proportionate to their importance, in a business-like manner, and with careful avoidance of irrelevant matter and of merely antiquarian and other excessive detail."—"Law Quarterly."

"The performance has exceeded the promise. Its excellences are such that it must speedily become the recognized work in which to seek general information on English Law."—"Law Journal."

"Up to the reputation of its authors, whose names generally are known as those of careful and competent lawyers."—"Law Times."

"A great work prepared with care and skill. The most ambitious work of its kind that has ever been attempted."—"Justice of the Peace."

"A very remarkable work, thoroughly well done, and differing in kind and degree from anything that has ever gone before. When finished will be unsurpassed."—"Solicitor's Gazette."
